Good News of Jesus Christ.”

OUR VISION

A Life-changing Experience

Our first readings at Mass on Sundays until Pentecost will tell us of the work of St Paul, a man who had a fundamental life-changing experience. Throughout the history of the Church, many who have come to faith have had similar experiences, although for many others, their coming to a mature faith in Jesus has been a more gradual process in which there may not be one single event which could be remotely compared to that of Saul on the road to Damascus.

One person who had such a life-changing experience was a lady called Abby Johnson, and a film has been made of her story. Abby was born in 1980 and grew up in Texas. During her time at university she volunteered for “Planned Parenthood”, an organisation which presents itself as a charity working to help women, and is in fact one of the biggest providers of abortions in the United States. Initially she was told that their aim was to reduce the number of abortions, and for eight years she worked in one of their clinics, eventually being promoted to become director of the clinic and in 2008 was named “Employee of the Year”. Throughout this time she was encouraging women who were seeking abortion, telling them that “a foetus cannot feel pain”. She was also scathing in her attacks on those who protested outside her clinic. However, in September 2009 she was asked to assist in the operating theatre. She was shocked to see on the ultrasound the unborn baby squirming and twisting to avoid the suction tube which was used in the process. She later wrote: “For the briefest moment the baby looked as if it were being wrung like a dishcloth, twirled and squeezed. And then it crumpled and began disappearing into the cannula before my eyes. The last thing I saw was a perfectly-formed backbone sucked into the tube, and then it was gone” (Johnson, Abby (2011). Unplanned. SaltRiver. ISBN 978-1-4143-3939-9.)

She must have wrestled with her conscience, and nine days later she resigned from the organisation.

In 2012 she was received into the Catholic Church, and has become a strong pro-life campaigner, not only opposing abortion, but also the death penalty and euthanasia. Since her change of heart she has been attacked at a personal level by the anti-life organisation, who even took her to court to try to suppress her story, even winning a restraining order against her, although this was overturned a week later.

The film of her experience, entitled “Unplanned” was released in America in March 2019 with very little publicity, yet has become the fourth-highest grossing film in the US on its opening week-end. This in spite of nearly all the major TV networks refusing to show advertisements for it and Twitter suspending the film’s promotional account. It is clearly a film that powerful people don’t want us to see.

One of the most powerful tools that the news media have is their ability to suppress stories that do not fit with their world-view, and while there may be a degree of balance in the news media over party politics, the term “Political correctness” covers a much wider range of issues. Our western society has come to an accepted view on a number of matters, some of which command general agreement, such as the unacceptability of racism and anti-Semitism, but others such as climate change are disputed, and the media are able to suppress information that does not suit it. The sanctity of life in one such.

It would seem that there are no plans for a release of the film in the UK, though it may be released as a DVD. There is some pressure for a release in Ireland.

In the account of the conversion of Saul on the road to Damascus, there is a telling point. Saul hears a voice saying “Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me? It hurts you to kick against the goad.” Saul asks “Who are you, Lord?”, and the reply comes: “I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting.” (Acts 26:14-15)

It is not difficult to translate this into the experience of Abby Johnson. “I am Jesus, whom you are trying to kill”, she hears from the ultrasound image.

Most of us have been moved by the beautiful pictures of the newly-born Archie, and we rejoice at the birth of our own children, nephews and nieces, grandchildren and great-grandchildren if we are fortunate enough to live to see them. The industry that calls itself “pro-choice” does not give the unborn child any choice in the matter, and would prefer not to use the word “child” or “baby”. When it comes to the unborn, that business is anti-choice and anti-life. The propaganda they produce is one-sided and would hide the truth about the death of unborn children

The story of Abby Johnson is one which is inconvenient to the way in which the majority of our society thinks, and its thinking is that inconvenient things must be done away with; in particular inconvenient pregnancies.

Life is God’s wonderful gift to us, and he has commanded us to treasure it (See Exodus 20:13). He has also given us this wonderful planet to be our home, and we must treasure that too. These are all part of what it means to be human, to be a part of God’s creation.

We show our gratitude to God, our true thanksgiving not just by what we do in Church and in our private prayer, but also through our involvement in our society, by our treasuring of life and of the planet on which we live, and teaching the next generation to be better than our own has been!

An important message for any who sometimes attend Mass at the Cathedral:

The Cathedral will no longer send envelopes from other Parishes back, so if you occasionally attend Sunday Mass there, please do not put St. Gregory's Envelopes into the collection, but save them until you are next here, or consider setting up a standing order (see Fr. Andrew)

Help urgently needed: our Alpha course has begun and we desperately need some more people to join the cooking team (3 to 7.30pm Tues afternoon) and the washing up team (8 - 10pm). If you are able to help, even if it's not every week, please speak to Fr. Andrew or Maria Heath.

Please pray for the sick

This Sunday is sometimes known as “Good Shepherd Sunday”, and the prayer takes up the theme from the Gospel.

There are three couplets in the meaning of the prayer, the first a contrasting one: ‘humble’ and ‘brave’, the second is more obvious in the Latin: ‘perveniat’ (may reach) and ‘processit’ (gone before). The third is ‘flock’ and ‘shepherd’.

Today we hear in the Gospel the promise of Jesus: “I give them eternal life”. Our

Almighty ever-living God, lead us to a share in the joys of heaven,
so that the humble flock may reach where the brave shepherd has gone before.

Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen.

prayer is that in humility we may come to the fulfilment of that promise in the joys of heaven.

There is another allusion in this prayer in the words “lead us to share in the joys of heaven” in that there is a connection to the language of the traditional Roman marriage in which the bride was led to her husband’s house. May we be led to the marriage feast of the Lamb.

Scripture Readings 12th May 2019, 4th Sunday of Easter, Year C

The Antioch church sent Barnabas and Paul on mission. After visiting Cyprus, Barnabas’ birthplace, they arrived at Perga on the south coast of what is now Turkey, and travelled north to Antioch in Pisidia. Everywhere they went they spoke first to the Jews about Jesus as the climax of the whole Jewish history. Jesus who was killed by the Jewish leaders, but raised from the dead by God. At first many Jews listened attentively.

The processional psalm sings joyfully of God: “he made us, we belong to him”.

In the Book of Revelation John sees events in heaven which mirror events on earth. Witnesses persecuted for their beliefs do not suffer in vain: they will be vindicated and evildoers punished. Not vengeance, but God’s justice. And a message of hope: the faithful of every nation will be rewarded with perfect life in God’s renewed creation.

In John’s Gospel, after Jesus had healed the man born blind, the Jewish leaders argued about Jesus, and asked him to say plainly if he was the Messiah. Jesus says the healing he does in the Father’s name testifies to him. He ends with a clear statement: “I and the Father are one” The Jews picked up rocks to stone Jesus: they understood Jesus was claiming to be God.

Psalm Response: We are his people, the sheep of his flock.

(Acts 13: 14, 43-52; Psalm 99(100); Rev 7: 9, 14-17; John 10: 27-30)

Bible Remains a Challenge to Many Catholics

A recent international Biblical Congress held in Rome from April 23-26, 2019 has established that access to the Bible in local languages, as well as affordability, remains a major challenge to many Catholics around the world.

Fr. Emmanuel Chimombo, who was among the participants at the Congress said that an evaluation of the activities of the Catholic Biblical Federation during the Rome Congress also indicated the need to make the Bible more available to people with physical disabilities, especially the visually impaired and those with hearing and speaking challenges.

“In Africa, we have made a number of strides. For instance, through the Small Christian Communities, we have encouraged the reading of the Bible. The faithful have opportunities to listen to the Word of God and be inspired according to one’s personal situation,” Fr. Chimombo said.

At the end of the Conference, President of Catholic Biblical Federation Cardinal Tagle, the Archbishop of Manila, Philippines, announced that the Federation’s Executive Committee has decided to mark 2020 the Year of the Word, beginning on the first Sunday of Advent December 1, 2019 until the feast of St. Jerome September 30, 2020.

The “Year of the Word” will be commemorated in our Diocese and throughout England and Wales, and the “Bible Timeline” courses that we have been running for several years past; first introduced to us by Fr Damien will be rolled out further as well as other initiatives, such as more encouragement to take the “Bible Alive” booklets.

Pontifical Biblical Institute

On the occasion of the 110th anniversary of the foundation of the Pontifical Biblical Institute, Pope Francis held an audience with the Professors and students of the Institute and with the participants in the Conference “Jesus and the Pharisees: An Inter-Disciplinary Revision.”

In his address, the Holy Father recalled the foundation of the Pontifical Biblical Institute, created by Saint Pius X, to be “a Centre of Higher Studies of the Sacred Scriptures in the City of Rome, to promote with the greatest possible efficacy the biblical doctrine and studies related to it, in keeping with the spirit of the Catholic Church” (Apostolic Letter Vinea Electa, May 7, 1909).

The Pontiff also pointed out that the Institute has worked since then to be faithful to its mission and has contributed to promote academic research and the teaching of biblical studies for students and future Professors, who come from some 70 countries.

Over the last years, the Institute has intensified its collaboration with Jewish and Protestant experts.

To Know One’s Neighbour

Pope Francis referred to the dialogue between Jews and Christians and the need to know one’s neighbour to love him. “Indeed, to love our neighbours better, we need to know them and to know who they are, we must often find the way to overcome old prejudices. Therefore, your Conference, relating creeds and disciplines with the intention of reaching a more mature and precise understanding of the Pharisees, will make it possible to present them in a more appropriate way in teaching and in preaching.”

Finally, the Holy Father hoped that the work of the participants would have “ample resonance within and outside the Catholic Church, and that your work may receive abundant blessings from the Most High or, as many of our Jewish brothers and sister would say, from Hashem.”
